

Grey Sparrow Journal

Issue 30, July 31, 2017

Home

Contents

Biographies

Submissions

Archives

Editors

Contact Us

Publications

Policies

Is it the tic-tic-tic of the clock

Or the smooth flow of time
That frightens us the most
As each second of each life is counted out
Or slips away
Uncontrolled
The loss
Moment by moment
Or unavoidable void looming
Unmanageably
Like a car going over a cliff
There should be more than this
More to life than loss
So let's pledge to ourselves to live
And leave death to others
Like the keepers of the graves of those that have gone before

-Josef Krebs

All rights to Grey Sparrow Journal are reserved with Grey Sparrow Press. No part of this publication may be reproduced or distributed in any form by any means, or stored in a database or retrieval system, without the prior written consent of Grey Sparrow Press, including, but not limited to, any network or other electronic means of transmission, or broadcast for distance learning. ©Individual copyrights remain with writers, artists, and photographers for their respective work. Grey Sparrow Press and Journal rights remain with Grey Sparrow Press, PO Box 211664, St. Paul, Minnesota 55121, <http://greysparrowpress.sharepoint.com/Pages/default.aspx>. When attribution of photography and/or art is not offered, it has been chosen from the public domain and Grey Sparrow Press holds no copyright. Grey Sparrow is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit corporation.