

I Cling to Life Raft Rifting in the Drift

by Josef Krebs | FIVE:2:ONE Magazine

I cling to life raft rifting in the drift
As if positive experiences were to be suspect
Alive yet unlikely
Passionate yet uncertain
Collaborating with those who planted feeling like train track explosives
As if different outcomes were impossible
And dreams would be washed away by the constant flash floods
Irredeemable and tantamount to disloyalty
Curbed only by self sacrifice
Accepting the utter self destruction
As a noble way to live
And die in accommodation